

Everyday Europe

Is the European Union out of touch with its citizens?

According to Spring 2023 Eurobarometer

71%

of citizens recognise the influence of the EU on their daily lives.

66%

of citizens say they are particularly satisfied with respect for fundamental rights within the EU.

56%

of citizens are interested in the forthcoming European elections.

The European Parliament brings the voice of citizens to the process of creating laws that have an impact on our daily lives.

Take a look around your town, a lot of local projects funded by the EU: a hydrogen-powered bus, a 2nd chance school, the redevelopment of a district, and so on!

When you are at the supermarket, look for the EU Ecolabel on cosmetics, washing-up liquid, toilet paper, etc.

Your everyday life made simple !

EU legislation improves the lives of all European citizens and gives them rights in other Member States.

When you browse online, the regulation on the protection of personal data protects you against spam and allows you to unsubscribe from newsletters.

Look for the European Conformity marking on your electronic devices, which proves that the product meets EU safety, health and environmental protection requirements.

Watch films or sports programmes, listen to music or download e-books anywhere in the EU, whether you're travelling or staying temporarily: it is all thanks to the EU!
